"I am glad to say we have no fence cutting in my district since the adjournment of the legislature. A few of the pasture men have rebuilt. Others will not do so for the present. There is feeling of insecurity still pervading the minds of the general class of our people. I think this is attributable in a great degree to the encouragement given to others by the criti-cisms of the press, on the legislation the departed glory of the senate. of the special session. Many papers condemn the legislature because en-closing land unlawfully was not made a felony as well as the wanton de struction of fences; and in the same connection predict that fence cutting will continue until such a law is en-

From the Nashvirle World. If the democratic party consents to let the people of the United States be further outrageously and pitilessly robbed and plundered by the present infernal war tariff, its days of usefulness are over and it will be supplanted by a reform force that will sweep all opposition out of its pathway. We must have a low tariff and low taxes.

The Usual Delays.

From the Brenham Banner. An examination has been made of the dressed stone for the new capitol at the quarries near Austin, and it is urged that before being placed in the walls it should be tested by Prof. Mallett, of the university. The capitol building has been in progress for upwards of two years and it would seem that prudence would have suggested a critical examination of the material to be used some time ago. If the stone should prove to be unfit for the purpose a further delay wilbe caused in the progress of the build ing. There is always an abundance of unforeseen delays to be encounte ed in the construction of public buildings and public works.
